Rome's Flavours · Project Scope

Deliverables · Status · What Comes Next

Purpose

This document sets out the scope of work across the Rome's Flavours project: what is complete, what is outstanding, and what comes next.

It is a shared reference so that everyone is working from the same picture and knows what is coming. It is a working guideline, not an agreement.

Action Required by Friday, August 21

The production day is set for Friday, August 28. To hold that date and finalize the schedule, we need the following confirmed by end of day Friday:

1. Reconfirm August 28 is still a go.
2. Confirm the Mount Dora space will be fully dressed and camera ready: cleaned, wine bottles placed, decor in position, lighting completed and approved.
3. Confirm whether Pino will appear on camera.
4. Send the list of dishes and menu items to be featured.
5. Confirm whether people are needed on camera as guests. Several reels and much of the B-roll call for a room that looks in use. If people are wanted in the shots, please confirm how many and what time they can be there.

Once these are confirmed, SwyFox will issue a full running order for the day so that every party knows where to be and when.

Status at a Glance

Workstream	Status	Next Step
Brand	Direction approved, definition outstanding	Brand book
Content Production	Booked and briefed	Production day, August 28
Website	First draft built, not live	Add new photography, then launch
Training	Material under review	Agree course structure

Sequence

Each stage depends on the one before it, and the order protects against building the same thing twice.

Brand, then Content, then Website, then Training.

- The brand defines how everything looks, sounds and feels. Photography, website design and the tone of the training all follow from it.
- The photography and video fill the website. Launching before the new images arrive means launching twice.
- The website is where the training lives, so it needs to exist before a course can go inside it.
- The training needs all three: the brand for its standards, the website for delivery, and the shoot for demonstration footage.

These overlap in practice and much of the work runs in parallel. Where two items compete, the earlier stage takes priority.

1. Brand

COMPLETE

- Creative direction agreed and approved
- Reference library selected and locked
- Positioning material gathered and reviewed

OUTSTANDING

The brand book, which will contain the entire brand definition and become the reference every other workstream is built against:

- Brand essence and brand pillars
- Target audience and brand personality
- Tagline and tone of voice rules
- Final color and typography system
- Photography direction
- How Winter Park and Mount Dora sit under one brand

NOTE ON TIMING

The brand book will not be finished before August 28, and it does not need to be. The approved creative direction is detailed enough to shoot against, and the reference library is locked. The shoot proceeds as planned and the brand book follows.

2. Content Production

Date	Friday, August 28, 2026, single production day
Location	Rome's Flavours, Mount Dora
Production partner	Marion Johnson, photographer and videographer
On site	Shelbi, directing and approving
Investment	$1,500, covering the full photo library, all six reels, and post-production

COMPLETE

- Production partner engaged and briefed
- Date and location set
- Creative brief issued and approved
- Reel 1 and Reel 2 concepts defined
- Training shot list prepared and issued separately

OUTSTANDING

- The five confirmations listed above, by Friday
- Reel 3 through Reel 6 concepts finalized
- The production day itself
- Delivery of the photo library and six reels

DELIVERABLES

- Photo library. Uncapped volume, covering every menu item, the storefront, and the full indoor and outdoor space.
- Six reels. Each 30 to 60 seconds, vertical 9:16, cinematic look, color grading, editing, music, captions.
- B-roll throughout: food, wine, preparation, guests and atmosphere.
- Training footage. Captured the same day and delivered raw, covered by a separate shot list.

CASTING

- Tatiana is not available for this shoot.
- Pino is the preferred subject for the personal, story led reel. To be confirmed.
- Diego is a strong alternative for that reel.
- Anthony is cooking on the day.

3. Website

The first draft is built and has been reviewed. It is not live yet.

COMPLETE

- All nine pages: Home, Menu, Wine, Our Story, Gallery, Private Dining, Locations, Reservations, Contact
- Two location structure, with Mount Dora in place and marked as opening soon
- Search engine foundations: restaurant schema, page titles and descriptions, social sharing tags, mobile first layout
- Reservations routed to OpenTable
- First draft reviewed and approved in principle

OUTSTANDING

1. New photography from the August 28 shoot, dropped into the existing image components
2. Google reviews on the home page and location pages, with the Google icon
3. Google Maps for each location
4. Separate menus for Winter Park and Mount Dora, each managed independently
5. Mount Dora address and details, once confirmed
6. Replace the placeholder guest review on the home page
7. Domain move and launch
8. Clover connection, after launch

CLOVER

Online ordering will run through Clover directly rather than through Wix.

Clover is a live system. It is taking real orders and payments right now, so it is connected only once the website is finished, tested and ready. Connecting a live payment and inventory system to a site that is still changing is how outages happen.

When we reach that point, we will need two items from Pino:

- Merchant ID, from the Clover Merchant Dashboard under Settings
- API token with read only Inventory permission, from Dashboard, then Settings, then Business Operations, then API tokens

Two conditions apply:

- Two factor authentication must be switched on for the Clover account before a token can be created
- The token must be shared through a password manager or by text message, never by email

There is no action needed on this yet. We will request it when the site is ready.

4. Training

COMPLETE

- Existing training material gathered and reviewed
- Draft course structure prepared
- Shot list prepared for demonstration footage on August 28

OUTSTANDING

1. Agree one source of truth. Several versions of the training material exist. Deciding which version of each module is the standard is the decision that unblocks the rest.
2. Write the missing procedures. Several operational sections currently exist as headings without content, including POS procedures, opening and closing checklists, drink preparation, wine management and restocking. These are first shift essentials.
3. Confirm the delivery method. The recommended first version is a staff login on the website: everyone receives the same course, everyone can return to it, and management can see who has completed what. This can be kept simple to start and built on later.
4. Build the modules, using the demonstration footage captured on August 28.

SELECTION

A selection system built around the brand follows the brand book. Until the brand is defined in writing, any criteria we build would reflect assumptions rather than the standard. Shelbi will pick this up with Pino directly.

What Happens After the Shoot

Stage	Work
Now to August 27	Confirmations returned, running order issued, space dressed. Brand book begins
Friday, August 28	Production day at Mount Dora
Following delivery	Photography added to the website. Google reviews and maps added. Separate menus built. Mount Dora details completed
Then	Domain moved and website launched
After launch	Clover connected
Then	Training modules built and published

Still to Be Confirmed

- Delivery turnaround for the photo library and reels
- Pricing for ongoing monthly content, if wanted beyond this project
- Revision terms
- Whether the opening event is captured as additional content, once the opening date is known

In Short

The August 28 production day is the item that unblocks the most. It supplies the website photography, the launch content and the training demonstrations in a single day. Everything else sequences around it.

What is needed this week is short: reconfirm the date, confirm the space is ready, confirm Pino, send the dish list, and tell us whether people are wanted on camera.
